Jeremiah told the people to love and obey God. But the people were not obeying God. God still loved the people. He wanted them to stop doing what was wrong. God told Jeremiah to write down God's very important words.

Jeremiah called his helper Baruch (buh-ROOK). Jeremiah said the messages from God out loud. Baruch wrote the messages down on a scroll. (A scroll is like a long rolled-up sheet of paper with writing on it.)

"Take the scroll to the Temple and read it to the people," Jeremiah told Baruch. The Temple was the place where God's people came to pray and learn about God.

Baruch took the scroll to God's Temple. He read it in a loud, clear voice. Some people went to King Jehoiakim (juh-HOY-uh-kuhm) and told him about the scroll.

The king ordered one of his helpers to bring the scroll to him. One of the king's helpers read it to him. The king was angry about what God's words said! The king grabbed a knife. He cut the scroll apart. He burned each piece in the fire!

The king may have thought he had gotten rid of God's words. But God told Jeremiah, "Write the scroll again." Jeremiah and Baruch obeyed God. They wrote another scroll just like the first one. Baruch read the scroll to the people again. But the king and the people did not listen. They kept doing what was wrong, so the sad things God said would happen, did happen.

 We can help others learn what God's words in the Bible say, too.
 Our Bible says, "I will obey God's word." (See Psalm 119:17.)

Write the letters of the alphabet in order.
 Then write any words you know how to spell.
 Learning your letters will help you read God's words in the Bible!
